The Star Factor

Every single one of us has the star factor – skills and talents that make us special. It might be that you are really good at something or it might be that you are kind and a great friend. What makes you special? Write it here:

Ranjita and her daughter live in Rajasthan, India.

We've hidden stars all over this activity sheet. How many can you find?

All around the world today are people who have the star factor.

This is Ranjita. Ranjita was forced to work when she was nine years old because her family were very poor. She had to do a horrible, dirty job of cleaning drains and toilets. Ranjita didn't want her children to have to do the same so she worked really hard to train as a tailor so she could earn money from sewing clothes. Now her family have somewhere to live and her youngest child can now go to school. We think Ranjita is a superstar!

What star qualities do you think they each had?

Can you spot the 6 differences between these illustrations?
